An organic compound found in all human cells, alpha-lipoic acid is a powerful antioxidant important to cellular metabolism. Studies have shown its potential effects on various ailments and diseases such as diabetes and nerve pain.†

Vinco's Alpha-Lipoic Acid is in the Racemic Form (R and S Isomers), known to be the most stable and absorbed form for oral use. It has been suggested that the presence of S-lipoic acid in the racemic mixture may limit the polymerization (process in which a small molecule becomes larger) of R-lipoic acid and enhance its bioavailability.†

Alpha-Lipoic Acid

- A naturally occurring fatty acid made by the body
- It is both water and fat soluble meaning it can work in every cell and tissue in the body
- Our bodies only make small amounts of this compound, so many choose to increase their intake through certain foods or supplements†
- Converts glucose into energy using oxygen, a process known as aerobic metabolism
- Has been shown to have antioxidant effects†
- Due to its ability to metabolize glucose and combat oxidative stress, it has the potential to be useful in the management of diabetes symptoms such as nerve pain†
