Heart disease is a common but serious condition that can lead to issues such as heart attack, stroke, and even death. One of the main risk factors for heart disease is high cholesterol, and one way to reduce high cholesterol is by taking Red Yeast Rice (RYR). RYR has the ability to lower and maintain healthy levels of cholesterol in the body, specifically LDL or “bad” cholesterol. Vinco’s Red Yeast Rice is a 100% natural whole food supplement that helps to support healthy LDL levels.†

Red Yeast Rice (Monascus purpureus)

- A type of fermented rice that is produced using specific species of mold, Monascus ruber or Monascus purpureus
- Has been used as an herbal remedy in Chinese Medicine for centuries
- One of the top natural remedies for high cholesterol levels as it contains the compound monacolin K, which is the same active ingredient found in prescription drugs meant for lowering cholesterol†
- Due to its effects on cholesterol, it is known to promote heart health†
- Has the potential to reduce inflammation in the body†

- Studies have shown that Red Yeast Rice, combined with a therapeutic lifestyle change, offers a lipid-lowering option for patients with a history of intolerance to statin therapy. Statins are one of the most commonly prescribed medication for primary and secondary prevention of coronary artery disease†
- Could provide an alternative option for those who cease taking statins that are prescribed to them due to reasons such as adverse effects, cost, unclear explanation of the benefits of statins, and reluctance to take a prescription medication long-term†
